

Warren Township has been actively engaged in closing the achievement gap through the use of the Eight-Step Instructional Process since 2002. Outside recognition of our student success has been validated in these ways:

- 2005 Magna Award Citation
American School Board Journal – Closing the Achievement Gap
- 2006 Warren Township is featured in book Are We There Yet? Continuing to Close the Achievement Gap, Patricia Davenport.
- 2006 Heather Hills Elementary - National School Change Award from Fordham University
- 2007 All eleven elementaries in Warren Township made AYP and the district made AYP.
- 2007-08 Lakeside Elementary – National Blue Ribbon School
- 2007-08 Lakeside Elementary – Title I Distinguished School Award
- 2008 Raymond Park Middle School became the first Warren middle school to achieve AYP status.
- 2008-09 Liberty Park Elementary – National Blue Ribbon School
- 2008-09 Lowell Elementary – Four Star School
- 2008-09 Hawthorne Elementary – Title I Distinguished School Award
- 2009 Inclusion of Warren Township in Key Work of School Boards, a publication on closing the achievement gap published by the National School Boards Association.
- 2009 Diplomas Count 2009: Broader Horizons: The Challenge of College Readiness for all students. Warren Township was identified as a large urban school system that demonstrated the highest graduation rates and strongest growth, relative to expectations based on demographics and structural characteristics. Warren Central High School increased 21% over a ten-year period.
- 2009 Sunny Heights Elementary – Received a $25,000 High Performing Grant from Title I.
- 2009 Voyager Learning Award
- 2009-10 Lowell Elementary – Four Star School
- 2009-10 Project Lead the Way – Top 25 in the nation
- 2010 Dr. Hinckley – Senator Lugar’s Patriot Education Award
- 2010 25th Lugar Energy Patriot Award
- 2010 Sunny Heights and Lowell Elementary – Finalist for Title I Distinguished School
- 2010-11 All elementary schools and the district made AYP
- 2010-11 Walker Career Center’s Threshold Restaurant named “HOT 100”
- 2011 Liberty Park Elementary – named a High Performing Title I school and received a $25,000 grant
- 2011 District made AYP